Weather Bureau Plans To Use Radar In Tracking Down Deadly Tornadoes

Whereas conventional - type radar used by weather forecasters track storms by means of electronic echoes from raindrops in a cloud, the doppler would be used to get echoes from high-speed circular air blasts within or extending sideways from thunderclouds That is, it would be a kind of remote-control speedometer for a whirlwind.

Bureau scientists believe the speedier these air blasts are, the more severe the thunderstorm and if there were some way of clocking, them by electronic means, it might be possible to say immediately whether an oncoming storm was a rain storm, hail storm or potential tornado.

Occasionally, an air-blast pattern from a thunderhead will emerge as a hook-shaped affair which, because it is laden with moisture, can be seen on a regular radar scope. These hooks have often been characteristic of tornadoes.

But more often than not the air storm cloud and thus be indistinguishable from echoes given by

This circular air-blast, incidentally, is to be distinguished from the rotating funnel-shaped cloud which, in a tornado, extends towards the ground from the base of a thundercloud.

It is this funnel-shaped affair which, with its roaring winds causes the tornado's terrific havoc. Horizontal winds in the column have been estimated as high as 500 miles an hour: the upsurging vertical winds have never been measured.

Conventional radar cannot "see" the funnel - primarily because it contains very little

Most radar scientists, like Vaughn Rockne, chief of the Weather Bureau's observation section, contend there is little chance of spotting the funnel even with a doppler radar. But Rockne says the doppler has a good chance of detecting the air-blast above the funnel-and if it does that, it would prove to be a major scientific breakthrough in the tornado field.

Weather Bureau scientists say if the system works in this summer's initial experiment—perhaps ious parts of the country.

Estimating a range of about 100 miles for a doppler, they figure that if it works it would provide anywhere from a half hour to four hours warning of a tornado.

These twisters have paths averaging between 10 and 40 miles long, but may reach 300 miles Their speed of forward travel averages from 25 to 40 miles per hour, but has hit 139. The paths average 300 to 400 yards wide though tornadoes have cut swaths a mile or more in width.

Meanwhile, the bureau says its record on forecasting tornadoes before they actually develop is steadily improving.

It's not yet possible to predict the exact spot where a twister will develop. But the bureau issues forecasts, of tornado possibilities in areas averaging approximately 20,000 square miles in size, and occasionally narrows it down to about 10,000 - roughly the size of Vermont. Still a big chunk of territory, bureau scientists grant, but they point out that just a few years ago their forecasts were even more generalized.

At present, advance notice of Inado possibilities within a 20,-000-square - mile area usually ranges from one to three hours

As distinguished from tornado forecasts, tornado warnings are issued when a twister is actually sighted. So far, the best warning that can be given to pinpoint specific city or town is about 45 POTTING SOIL: spotters — from farmers to filling- AFRICAN VIOLET SOIL: station attendants - contribute to a warning network coordinated by the Weather Bureau. No skin is pure white, pure pink or pure yellow. It is a subtle combination of many tints. Even the hair's coloring through its reflection on the face affects the tint of the skin.

Because of the multiplicity of color factors, a muted, neutralized shade of powder is always preferable. A clear, true shade of powder cannot possibly result in a natural effect.

Face powder should be lighter than the skin. The most attractive effects are achieved when the powder and foundation not only match each other but the complexion also.

Just as foundations may be used to "remodel" the face, so may powders. This is accomplished by using a darker powder on an area you wish to minimize wish to augment. If your face is too wide, use a darker powder in two long sweeps at the outer sides of the cheeks. The nose will seem smaller if it's powdered with a shade darker than the rest of the face. A too-small chin will seem more prominent if it is pow dered with a lighter shade. Because of the difference between natural and artificial light, the skin looks better at night with a powder that contains a slightly pinker tint than is worn during the day.

Never take your powder for granted! Choose the shade and texture that will work in the interest of your beauty!

Dispute Over Barton Alley Is Settled

An agreement has been effect ed in a Barton dispute over the closing of an alley through an opinion filed yesterday by Chief Judge George Henderson.

Mrs. Sophia Llewellyn, George Brennan, Virginia Brennan, Robert E. Brennan and Betty May Brennan had filed the equity action against Mrs. Carrie Bean and Mrs. Ruth Robertson in an effort to have the alley in question

Later the Mayor and Commissioners of the Town of Barton entered the suit as parties plaintiff to find out the exact status

The suit had been brought by the plaintiffs over the closing of a ten foot alley in Somerville Addition of Barton.

The plaintiffs charged the alley had been blocked by fences, a gate and other obstructions.

Judge Henderson said the land records of the county covering Somerville Addition had been examined and deeds referred to the

He said the alley had been accepted by the Town of Barton as a public thoroughfare, and that the town is responsible for its maintenance.

He said it is further stipulated and agreed that none of the owners of lots abutting on the alleyway have any right to obstruct it, or to make any improvements which would cause any obstruc "It is further agreed that the mediately reopened and that this agreement can be enforced," the judge said in his opinion.

MISS MARYLAND AND FRIEND-Jeanne Steel, Miss Maryland of 1957, who obviously does her part to "Keep Maryland Beautiful," hears a message on the importance of Clean-Up Week from the new mascot of the Governor's Committee to Keep Maryland Beautiful. The oversize squirrel, a knight in shining armor, with electronic vocal cords, is as yet unnamed. The Governor's Committee has offered a $50 U. S. Savings Bond as a prize for the best name suggested. The contest closed March 31 and judging of entries is now going on. Winner will be announced during Clean-Up Week, April 13-20.

Collector's Office Gets 'Breather'

legany County Court House is getting a slight "breather" this week prior to starting the annual task of making out 1957 bills for state and county taxes-both real estate and personal property. An office spokesman said the preparation of the bills will probably be started next week after the 1957 Allegany County tax levy is set Tuesday.

Only recently the office force was kept busy with motorists seeking their new Maryland auto license plates. The rush which lasted several weeks ended about the first of April.

West's selection of the king of hearts as the trump to lead was somewhat unorthodox, but is worthy of comment. It is, in my opinion, well thought out. If declarer has ace, queen, jack, it doesn't matter whether he leads the ten or the king, but if dummy should happen to have the singleton jack or queen of hearts, a trick would be picked up by the lead of the king and if East should happen to have the singleton honor it is unlikely to matter.

'Communist' State In Southern India

A Communist administration is scheduled to take over the state of Kerala in India by mid-April. A hair-line majority of the seats in the state legislature was won by the Communists and their allies in the March nation-wide elections. The Congress party of Prime Minister Nehru was held to about one-third of the Kerala seats. In none of the other 13 Indian states with elected legislatures did the Reds get as much as one-fifth of the seats won by the Congress party. And when it came to the contests for the national parliament, the Communists won less than 10 per cent, as against 75 per cent for the Congress party.

Kerala, smallest of the Indian states, lies along the extreme southwest coast. It has the highest literacy rate in all India, but probably the worst economic conditions, with unemployment high and food production low. Keralans speak a separate dialect, Malayalese. The Communists themselves admit that the vote in Kerala was less an endorsement of Communism, either the Russian or Chinese variety, than a protest against the alleged lethargy and corruption of the preceding Congress administrators in the state. So the new Red administration will be faced with the necessity of doing something to ameliorate conditions quickly.

The constitution of India is the reverse of that of the United States, in that it reserves to the central government all powers not expressly vested in the states. So the Nehru government will have power to restrain the new Keralan regime if this tries to take steps there which New Delhi regards as inimical to the best interests of India at home or abroad.

Taxes And The Future

Taxes can only come out of the productivity of a people. The income tax is based upon the earnings of such productivity. The inheritance tax is based on the residue, the savings, the accumulation of such earnings. The so-called capital gains tax is nothing more than a limited income tax intended to stimulate ting committee which is trying investment in commerce and industry but simul- to do what the courts are supposlating speculation and stock-market dishonesty which is now as bad as it has ever been in pointed complaint that this was

It makes very little difference what a tax is called or how it is operated; what does matter is that the reservoirs of capital are drying up, that small retail, wholesale and manufacturing enterprises have little opportunity to accumulate capital to advance themselves, that while the individual thinks he is better off because wages are high and his possession of things increases, actually the individual private debt is on the constant rise.

It is to be noted in this connection that two principal reasons for increased private debt, the sale of automobiles and the sale of kitchenware such as refrigerators and radio and television sets have not responded too well to the onslaught of the Spring buying season, probably for no better reason than that the market is saturated and there is no special compulsion to go further into debt. Installment buying is really a form of savings in the sense that the article is purchased despite a shortage of cash, to be paid for during use. But in the squeeze between paying taxes and meeting obligations, the high wage earner discovers that what he thinks is money is not exactly what he thought it was.

A government can set any kind of a budget it chooses, but the question of the law of diminishing returns sets in, and a government receives less money than anticipated to meet its obligations. Usually this can be covered up by various inflationary gimmicks. When it can no longer be covered up, a government finds itself in trouble, because the people refuse to pay taxes. It needs to be remembered that the French Revolution started as a tax revolt. The American Revolution was a tax resistance movement. The Boston Tea Party was a direct action movement against taxes. In the Declaration of Independence, the bitterness over taxes emerges in the phrase:

"For imposing taxes on us without our consent": Section 8 of Article I of the Constitution limits

"The Congress shall have power to lay and collect taxes, duties, imposts and excises, to pay the debts . . but all duties, imposts and excises shall be uniform throughout the United States"

So distrustful were the Founding Fathers concerning taxes that the Constitution provided:

"All bills for raising revenue shall originate in the House of Representatives; but the Senate may propose or concur with amendments as on other bills.

It was the 16th Amendment to the Constitution, adopted in 1913, which altered the fiscal system of the American Government and the social character of the American people. The amendment reads

The Congress shall have power to lay and collect taxes on incomes, from whatever source derived, without apportionment among the several states, and without regard to any census or enumeration.'

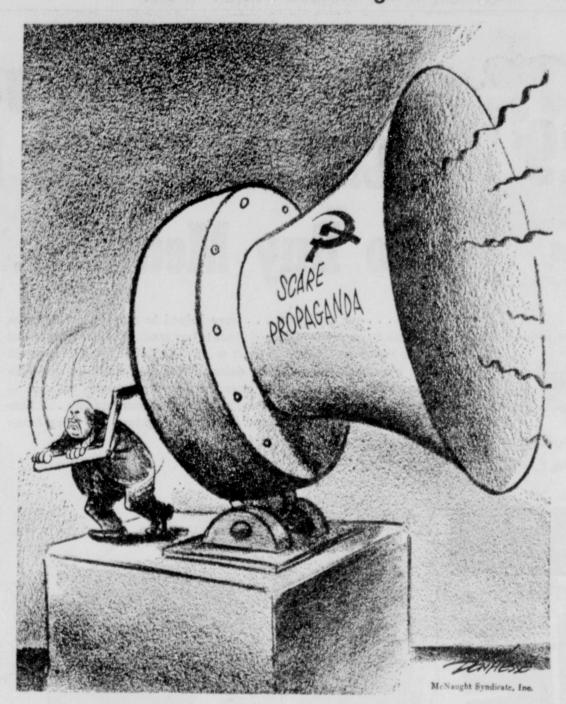

The courts have defined income as the gain derived from capital, from labor, or from both combined, provided that it be understood to include profit gained through the sale or conversion of capital assets.

At first the income tax was used to increase the revenue of the government; during the Franklin Roosevelt Administration, and since, it has been used as an instrument for social change. Although in recent years, it was expected that the income tax would redistribute wealth, various financial gimmicks have been used to make it possible for those possessing inherited or accumulated wealth to conserve their assets to the disadvantage of those who are limited to earned

The collection of the income tax was at first generous and easy-going, with a recognition that the taxpayer would take every advantage of the law. Since the conviction of Al Capone on income tax frauds, the collection has grown so ferocious that one former Commissioner, T. Coleman Andrews, has been devoting himself to its denunciation. The worst characteristic of the income tax is that it encourages profligacy in administration and discourages enterprise among the people. Why work if nothing can be kept?

U. S. Unable To Do Anything About Spying Russian Subs Off Florida

HOBE SOUND, Fla-U. S. Navy blimps in their routine policing of the American coastline have sighted about a dozen foreign submarines lying off Cape Canaveral. Florida. Since these are not subs of any allied nation, such as England or France, the conclusion is inescapable that they are Russian, and that they are lying off Florida to watch for and spy on the first Intercontinental Ballistic Missile, which presumably is due to be fired soon.

This is the missile which, when perfected, should be able to fire from the United States to Moscow in about 30 minutes, carrying a hydrogen warhead. It is no secret that experiments on the ICBM have been taking place at Patrick Air Force Base, Fla., and the Russian subs unquestionably have received reports of an impending test.

Since they are more than three miles offshore, there isn't anything much the U.S. Navy can do about them-unless we want to risk war with Russia.

However, it will be difficult for the subs to learn much about the ICBM or to jam it, since it is not radio-controlled. Jamming is possible with a radio-controlled missile, but the new intercontinental and intermediate range missiles are guided by the inertial system, involving the gyroscope.

Russia had about 400 modern postwar submarines as of last year and was building them at the rate of 85 a year, so the total

Island Paradise

For some time, Sam Pryor, vice president of Pan American Airways, has been telling me about the tropical charms of Jupiter Island, off Hobe Sound, Fla., but I was always able to resist its allure until a beautiful widow, Mrs. Katherine Denckla, issued the in-

Sam is right. He and I may not agree on some things pertaining to aviation, but Mrs. Pearson and I found that on Jupiter Island he and friends have staked out a tropical paradise where the coconut trees form vistas of majesty, where the pounding of the surf acts like a sleeping pill and the Gulf Stream is soft and warm and azure in the distance.

On it you see the pelicans rise and fall with the roll of the waves as if they hadn't a care in the world. You see the white-bait so hick in the water that a cloud seems to be passing over the waves. Back from the shore line a mass of cabbage palm, bayonet palm, and prickly grass confronts you with a warning, 'go no further," and unless you are equipped with a machete or bulldozer you stop at the edge of a jungle just as wild as any in South America.

But along the jungle, between it and the sea, are lanes of Australian fir which reach up to the sky and talk with God. And behind their hedgerows, if you look much stress has been laid on the carefully, you'll catch glimpses of the homes of the Cudahys and the Armours, the Harrimans and the Lovetts, of Weyerhaeuser, the lumber king, Voorhees of U. S. Steel, of Mrs. Worthington Scranton of Scranton, Pa., and Ernest Weir of Weirton Steel.

> The hibiscus are brilliant, the spice trees perfume the air, and the bougainvillaea, less languid than I, festoon themselves along the hedgerows. It's no place for a boy who never wore shoes in eastern Kansas, and I shall have to get back to Washington before I become as lethargic as the sea gulls, which will hardly get out of the way as you walk along the abuild one of the world's largest friendship, and airlines, but he also has one of the world's biggest collections of dolls. He was bequeathed 400 dolls has now increased the number to 1.800.

Every year Pan American Airways helps bring 20 or so students from various parts of the world to attend the New York Herald Tirbune forum, and as a part of their good-will pilgrimage, Sam entertains them at his home near Greenwich, Conn., where he has built a virtual museum for dolls. "These youngsters are the future prime ministers of their countries," Sam says of the student-visitors. "They're at an age when they don't know hatred, when they can learn to prevent hatred. When I saw a little Israeli girl sitting at my piano playing while a Jordanian boy sang, I realized there was hope for the world.'

Pham Crong-le, one of the students from Viet Nam who visited the Pryors' home last winter, wrote him: "One spiritual thing that I was feeling myself, when before me, hundreds of dolls and toys were arrayed and display. ed, is that the world seems friendlier, closer than I thought."

People from all all over the world contribute to the Pryor doll collection, and people from all over the world also come to see it. Sometimes Sam gets duplicates and helps supply orphanages with the overstock. But he also hunts up new dolls himself.

The other day in Bangkok, Sam asked his local PAA representative if he knew where to buy

"I haven't seen any dolls in this country," was the reply. "I don't believe there are any. "You haven't looked," replied the PAA vice president.

That afternoon he turned up 18 new dolls, and that evening at dinner Mrs. Max Bishop, wife of the American Ambassador, told of seeing an ivory doll at the thieves market. She didn't remember just where it was, but next day Sam hired a taxi and scoured the thieves market until he found the doll. It was ivory, 300 years old.

Sam Pryor first began flying in 1916 at Daytona Beach, Fla. He has flown longer than any of his own pilots. He has also been active in politics, helped manage Wendell Willkie's campaign in 1940, has been one of the big money-raisers for the Republican National Committee. But in recent years, Sam's greatest delights are his grandchildren (four on the runway, four in the hang-Sam Pryor has not only helped ar), building up international lection of dolls.

On The Side

By E. V. Durling

What was the height at birth PASSING BY of your first baby? By the height at birth can be determined whether the infant will be short or tall upon becoming an adult. The height at birth is about 30 per cent of what it will be when the youngster reaches adult years. At birth Princess Caroline, recently born child of Her Royal Highness Princess Grace of Monaco, measured 21 inches. That indicates Caroline is going to be a very tall woman. She will be between five feet, nine, and five feet 10 inches.

PLEASE NOTE

A New York taxi skipper informs me that on a recent day the total take of his cab was $19.20. Of this the company took $11.70 as its share. After five per cent had been deducted for taxes, the driver had $7.50 remaining. His tips amounted to $3.80, making his total earnings for a 10 hour day amount to $11.30. So now you know why a New York cab driver can't support himself and family unless tipped. Even when he is tipped, it is a very tough struggle to make ends meet.

TOP THREE

The three most popular dishes among restaurant patrons in this country are said to be ham and eggs, chicken and steaks. Twenty years ago corned beef and cabbage was tied with steak for first place in the restaurant popularity poll. Now it isn't even mentioned. Why has this delightful dish so decreased in popularity?

HER COMPLAINT

In my never ceasing efforts to understand women, I take note of what wives in various parts of the country offer as grounds for divorce. Some of these complaints are very interesting. As for example, that of a Los Angeles woman, mother of 17 children, who said the principal reason for her seeking a divorce was that her husband wanted more child-

High School Tossers Win With Pair Of Runs In 6th Inning

Fort Hill High's Sentinels opened their baseball season yesterday by turning back an Alumni aggregation, 2-0, behind the three-hit pitching of Jesse Markley and Russell Jones.

The Sentinels, coached by Bobby Cavanaugh, combined a single, two errors, sacrifice and a sacrifice fly for their two tallies in the sixth inning, breaking the scoreless deadlock.

Markley, ace of the Fort Hill staff last year, hurled the first four innings for the schoolboy nine, striking out eight. Jones finished up the final three innings, gaining credit for the victory on the sixth-inning rally by

Jimmy Eckard tossed one-hit ball for five innings for the Grads, turning over the mound

Gary Wolford opened the sixth gled and Ed Weaver sacrificed both runners up. Jimmy Hammond's sacrifice fly to center brought Wolford home with the winning run and Hillegas scored Outstanding fielding play of the game was Jim Stinson's catch in right field of Ronnie Cage's line smash. The lineups:

In Memoriam

In memory of James Floyd Boone ho passed away 14 years ago today Always so true, unselfish and kind.
Only a few in this world his equal you'll find.

A beautiful life that came to an end.
He died as he lived everyone's friend
Beautiful memories of a smiling face.
A broken link no one can replace
Whatever else I fail to do.
I'll never fail to think of you.
Sadly missed by his mother, Nellie.

McKeldin Signs Several Money Bills Into Law

To Act On Teacher Salaries Next Week

By HERB THOMPSON

BALTIMORE, April 10 (P)-Gov. McKeldin today signed into law a batch of "money" bills from the Maryland General Assembly, but the measure to boost pay of public school teachers was not among

Those he did sign included the new $360,226,620 state operating budget, a capital improvements program totaling $16,806,100 for state buildings and equipment, pay raises for state police and tax assessors, and a boost in salary for the comptroller and attorney general who will take office after

McKeldin said he still has not decided definitely whether he will approve or veto the proposed pay raise for school teachers and its accompanying cigaret tax. He indicated he will act on it next week. His next bill signing session is tentatively set for 3 p.m. Monday in Baltimore.

Getting writer's cramp with the governor as he fixed his name to 295 bills and 20 joint resolutions today were Senate President Louis Goldstein (D-Calvert) and House Speaker John Luber (D-Balto 5th)

It took them an hour and 3 minutes to plow through the stack of legislation and left approximately 135 bills still to be acted on from the 1957 session.
